Chased by Wild Stallions.

"By Heaven they are upon us!" exclaimed Buxton as he suddenly brought up his blooded bay almost by the impetuosity of the movement throwing the noble creature on his haunches.

"What—what—Indians!" hastily questioned his companions Baldwin King and Cooper of the train, who happened to be riding over the grass-covered prairie at a canter by the side of the Texan guide Buxton.

"Hist! did you not hear them?"

Loud neighings and shrill cries of pain came to the ears of the listeners accompanied by the regular and heavy thud of a cavallada, wild with passion in it (it is their rutting season). The very earth on which the guide and his companions stood, although perhaps a half dozen miles from where the hot blooded angered and fighting beasts were destroying each other as they flew over the plain shook under them, as if an earthquake was spreading and vibrating in the rock ribbed globe and was about to open great fissures and swallow them on the instant.

"They are moving this way—for the water!" cried Buxton while a shade of anxiety overspread his manly, sun browned face.

"Is there danger?" asked Cooper, in a low, nervous voice.

"Danger!" echoed Buxton, "aye, is there, and we must meet it. If these mustangs should continue in their present course, not only our own but the lives of the women and children in the trains will be sacrificed. These animals in this season are more terrible than the same number of tigers hungering for human blood!"

"We must if possible, avert all danger from the women and children," said King, who, except the guide, seemed to be the most self possessed of the four horsemen. "What shall we do? How proceed?"

These questions were addressed to the guide a noble specimen of mankind—tall and erect as an Indian, with the dark piercing eyes of the eagle—eyes that could look squarely at the sun in its meridian glory without being dazzled.

While King was yet speaking, Buxton, the guide slid from his horse, and scanned the ground closely. For upward of a minute—an hour it seemed to his companions—he looked at the ground, and then suddenly returned to his blooded bay and sprang on his back.

"What shall we do? How proceed?" echoed the guide. "Our position is dangerous, but we must lose no time in idle conjectures. There is an arroyo within two miles of the train—the only one that can now be reached. If we can cross in season before the incensed devils can reach it, and by placing the wagons around the women and their young ones as a barricade, we may avert the danger. Hark! hear the thunder of their hoofs. There must be a thousand of them! yes they are making for the mottes! You, Cooper and Baldwin, ride back to the train—remember the lives of all that are dear to you may depend on your driving home your rowels into your horses flanks—and turn their heads towards the arroyo. Cross it without delay. Leave a wagon transversely in the crooked path, on this side. It will interrupt the progress of the beasts. Away."

The men indicated turned their animals' heads to the eastward, and the next moment were flying over the prairie as if on the wings of the wind.

"King," cried Buxton, "a herd of mares passed this way this morning. They have deserted the stallions, as it is their wont at this season and must have crossed the arroyo at sunrise. The stallions are following them, mad so mad that they are even now fighting each other indiscriminately—biting and tearing eachother to pieces. Look at your rifle. You have a cool head, a steady hand, a clear eye. We must, if possible although the task is but hopeless, endeavor to check their progress. These beasts are led by captains, so to speak whom they instinctively obey. You may remark them readily. They are the largest, strongest and noblest looking of the herd. They take the lead. When the herd appears in sight, shoot that one down that I shall indicate, while I do a like service to the other. Do not stop to see him fall, but turn your animal's head towards the train, and make him fly. In this I will follow your example. Do not forget to load your weapon as you go. If we succeed in shooting down the leaders we shall gain a minute's time and when they resume their course, if they gain upon us before we reach the arroyo, your horse must take the gulch on the fly. It is not more than fifteen or sixteen feet in width. Once on the other side, we may calculate on safety, if not, God alone can help us, as the wind is now against our firing the grass."

"I will obey implicitly," replied King, in quiet tones.

Hardly had those words been uttered, when there appeared on a rise in the prairie a great black moving mass, the vanguard of the infuriated beasts—snorting and shrieking, their teeth meantime snapping with rage. They were galloping at a tremendous pace, and as Buxton had indicated, in a direct line for them.

"Had we none but ourselves to think of," said the guide with forced calmness, as he put a fresh cap on the nipple of his rifle, "we could very easily avoid this avalanche of madness by riding to the northward or southward, and so by an oblique course get to the rear. Ha! they see us!" he suddenly exclaimed. "What a magnificent sight! See, King see, They are in a line and ready like trained cavalry horses to charge upon us! No more fighting among themselves now! They have an enemy in front! Are you ready? They are about to plunge upon us. Take that great sorrel one upon the left. I will kill the white one. What a splendid animal! There is not such another one in Texas! I would not take a thousand dollars for him. Fire!"

Simultaneously the explosion of the caps followed by the report of the rifles, broke upon the stillness of the scene.

The next moment the magnificent creature so enthusiastically spoken of by Buxton sprang from the ground with a wild, quick cry and then fell forward dead before his astonished followers. The ball had struck the eye of the beast and penetrated the brain.

King was equally fortunate. The sorrel was hit fairly in the breast and fell almost without a struggle.

"Now!" and Buxton wheeled his horse towards the train. "Now for the arroyo! Reload as you ride," he added as his bay with great strides swept over the grass at the rate of almost a mile in a minute. Meantime he was not idle. In a few moments his weapon was reloaded and capped.

King followed his example but more clumsily. He had not been accustomed, although an expert marksman to replenish his rifle with powder and ball while riding a steed that was urged by its very fear to outdo the tremendous pacing of the blooded bay. However, he succeeded in accomplishing his object and he then laid it transversely before him on the saddle, ready for any emergency.

For several moments the guide and his companion rode on in silence. At length Buxton cried

"Ah! do you hear them! They are following us. They have got new leaders. Do you see yonder old King? Make for it. The descent on the thither side is easy. If we reach it in time, we may have an opportunity of seeing what progress the train has made towards the gulch. The wagons should be on the other side of it, and the animals women and children corralled by this time."

Two or three minutes hard riding brought them to the brow of the hill the guide had indicated. There they slackened their pace, and while King looked toward the great moving mass—the immense army of stallions that were still following them shrieking snorting gnashing their teeth and driving them into each other's torn flanks, the guide turned his eyes anxiously eastward.

"Great heavens!" he suddenly exclaimed "are these people mad? Look, King the train has stopped! What does it mean? It is impossible to get across the arroyo in time to save it from attack. I fear those poor defenceless creatures in it will never see another time. They will be trampled and torn to pieces!"

The guide swayed to and fro on his saddle as if irresolute of purpose. The crisis was near at hand. At length he cried as he looked at his companion whose pale face, usually rubicund told the guide that he fully appreciated the danger. "Hand me your rifle King and hasten towards the train. Join wagon to wagon. Leave not an opening anywhere and if the wild devils do get it, place the women and children under their bodies between the wheels. I will remain here and check them."

"No Buxton that would not be fair. Let me stay. My life is not worth as much as yours to the people you lead," cried King.

"No time to talk," replied the guide in a low determined voice. "I am captain and must be obeyed—hand me your weapon."

His companion sorely against his will placed his rifle in the hands of Buxton, who carefully examined the nipple and satisfied himself that the percussion cap would not fail him on any emergency.

"Now for the train! We have no time to parley."

The next minute King was on his way to the train which when he had reached without stopping to ascertain the cause of delay, instantly organized it for defence, as directed by the guide. Meantime Buxton looked far out on the plain towards the west. Notwithstanding the critical position in which he found himself placed—the lives of so many helpless ones depending on his vigilance and courage—he could not repress an exclamation of admiration, as his clear, dark, penetrating eyes rested on the spectacle beneath.

"It is worth a life to look upon such a scene!" he exclaimed. "I would I were here alone! Ah! yonder noble courser would be mine if I had to follow him over the hill and valley to the Guadaloupe. How splendidly he carries himself! He seems to know, too, that with his erect ears, curved tail and flowing mane, he is the undisputed leader of the thousands that are fighting and following whatever way he turns his head. I would that he took the whim to gallop any way but the route he is on, he seems to scent the trail of the mares and death only can stop his career. He must die."

As the guide spoke he drew his own trusty rifle to his shoulder, ere he drew it therefrom the noble steed he so much admired lay breathless, lifeless at the front of his thousands of equine followers.

"A respite!" he cried. "Ha! will they not stop! Another leader already. He too must go—and then everything depends on chance. I wish the wind blew to the westward."

The muzzle of King's weapon covered the new leader. The trigger was pulled, and the beast fell ere he had taken his place as the leader. The stallions now stopped as if irresolute how to proceed, but Buxton saw leaving the ranks far in the rear, a self-appointed captain, who, with movements we might in some degree of truth say were analagous to lightning, pushed up to the front.

"It will be full a minute before he reaches the van," mused the guide; "I will have time enough to reach the train. Ha! the wind is changing! We are saved."

As he spoke he rode down the hill, and in a little while was within the lines of the wagons.

"Pull, all of you, the grass from around here. Leave the ground bare. The prairie must be fired. It is our only chance!" he cried, as he alighted from his panting bay.

In an instant the men, women and children, who had previously been made fully acquainted with the impending danger, were at work with knives and sickles, shearing the earth of its herbage. A few minutes sufficed for this, but it was not wholly when the front rank of the wild stallions were seen coming over the brow of the hill which the guide had just left.

Without a word his directions were obeyed.

"We are prepared," he said, as he looked around him; "but our poor beasts will suffer for that I am about to destroy."

"Now," said the guide, "it is our time."

Springing over one of the vehicles, he commenced striking his flint and steel. The tinder beneath this ignited. It was instantly applied to the grass, which—the cavallada was now within a thousand yards of the train—at once sprang up in great sheets of flame, and seemed to travel towards the wild horses even more rapidly, under the pressure of the winds, than they were moving against them.

The stallions suddenly stopped, looked bewildered, and then, with shrillings, snortings and neighings that filled the air [illegible] with discordant noises, turned to escape the new danger.

The fire had now spread itself far and wide, and leaped from hillock to hillock, rising and falling at the same time like the phosphorescent waves in a tropical sea. Away to the northward, the prairie fire rushed, followed closely upon the heels of the discomfited stallions, until both were finally lost sight of in the far off distance where the earth and sky seemed to meet each other in friendly embrace.

The great peril was safely passed.

"Had not the wind suddenly veered," said Buxton, as he looked upon the men, women and children who gathered around him, "not one of us would have lived to see the sunset. We should have been trampled and torn to pieces. At any other season but this, these wild creatures would have avoided rather than pursued us. Now they are literally mad."

With thankful hearts the men rearranged the train and pursued their way west over the ground now black and dreary that a few hours before was so lovely to the vision of the mind's eye as to an imagined landscape of Paradise.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 1 1866

LEARN OF OUR ENEMIES.—The Democracy propose to organize Clubs, in order to rally their forces at the next election Union men should not be slow to take knowledge of this movement but should act at once Get together in your precincts talk matters over, ascertain the politics of the new comers and foot up the figures There are a large number, very nearly one half of last years' immigration, that will vote the Union ticket. See to it that these new men are properly looked after Give them the right hand of fellowship and let them see that we all work together to maintain the Union and the Constitution and the glory and honor of the country, while on the other hand the Oregon Democracy once urged the rebels to the extent of their ability to make war upon the Union Keep the past before the people —Oregon Statesman

We heartily concur in the above Ever since the war for the Confederacy begun, there has been a little squad of politicians in this State who have been devoutly wishing for the success of Jeff Davis in his Democratic scheme of dividing the Union and establishing a new government whose corner stone should rest upon the "nigger" These politicians sympathized with the rebels throughout the war, and did all they could to embarrass the people in their efforts here and elsewhere to save the Union Too cowardly to avow their designs openly, they organized secret societies by all kinds of representations to suit men of different shades of Copperhead complexions, which societies they called the "Old Guard," "Knights of the Golden Circle," and "Sons of Liberty" (!) whose members were sworn under the most fearful oaths to obey their officers and to assist in putting down President Lincoln's administration. These organizations existed in all the Northern States, and in every considerable village in Oregon There is not a man of the opposition in this State who is now considered a reliable Democrat who was not a member of one of these organizations One of their objects was the creation of a separate government on this coast · In fact, they hated the Union so much and loved slavery and their chivalrous friends of the South so well, that they were willing to do anything that might assist the Southern Confederacy. These men despise the sentiment of the Declaration of Independence that "all men were born free and equal," and they long for nothing so much as to obtain such an ascendancy as will enable them to stop the progress of the liberal ideas of the American people. Fortunately for our country, such men are in a hopeless minority. Notwithstanding the signal success with which the Union party has administered the Government, both State and national, during the past four years in spite of the efforts of those who opposed coercion, favored compromise and urged a dishonorable and ruinous peace, the cry will still be raised, "Down with the Black Republicans." Although the enlightened voice of the people, taught by the sad experience of the past, has solemnly decreed by amendment to the organic law of the nation, that slavery shall no longer exist in the Republic, yet we are still to be denounced as "abolitionists," as if the term had not long since become one of honor instead of reproach

In Oregon, the number of Copperheads has hereto ere been quite small, but the close of the late war making Missouri and other States too warm for many defeated rebels, has added largely to their strength by thrusting upon us a host of desperadoes from the pseudo Confederacy, whose hands have been imbued in the blood of our patriot soldiers who gave up their lives to preserve the existence of the nation they loved so well Some of the men who fought in the rebel ranks, did so from an honest conviction of duty, due to the action of minds poisoned by a false education, while others were forced there against their will. Such men have n [illegible] principles in their composition, and now that they can see the folly of the past, and have left the scene of their former disgrace, many of them will, doubtless, try to establish in their new homes a reputation which may be proudly cherished by their posterity—a reputation of freedom from further connection with the authors of their woe. A large number of those who have recently come to our State, have always been true Union men, and will now, as ever, defend the right, making a valuable addition to our party Hundreds of our citizens who were absent from the State in the military service at the last Presidential election, will be at their homes next June.

Many of our people who voted for McClellan, did so because they believed he would be more successful in conducting the war for the Union. Now that they can see the perfidy of the party with which they once blindly acted, they will certainly return to their places among the nation's true friends. None who were brave enough to stand by our colors during the dark days of the war, will now have the cowardice to desert them Thus, while we shall gain many voters we will, most [illegible], lose none at all But, let us not forget that "eternal vigilance is the price of victory." Nothing that energy, artifice or misrepresentation can effect will be wanting on the part of our opponents to secure their success. Though often defeated in the past—at the ballot box and in the field—the enemy boasts that he has not been subdued and again raises the shout of "On to victory!"

> "Though half the wretches, whom at night he led
> To thrones and victory, lie disgraced and dead,
> Yet morning hears him, with [illegible] crest,
> Still vaunt of thrones and victory to the rest,—
> And they believe him!"

So we must work if we would win; and the sooner we commence, the more certain will be our success Shakspeare says

> "There is a tide in the affairs of men,
> Which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
> Omitted, all the voyage of this life
> Is bound in shallows, and in miseries"

THE STATE FAIR — From the Agriculturist and Pioneer of Feb 15th, we learn that the Board of Managers of the State Agricultural Society met at Salem pursuant to notice on the 13th The account of the Recording Secretary was examined and found to be correct It shows a total amount of receipts, at the late fair for incidentals to have been $3,000 60 The Treasurer's report shows a balance on hand of $1,096 25 Various committees were appointed and after a discussion of some hours, the 16th day of October was fixed as the time of commencing the Fair for 1866, to be continued four days

COAL —The State Journal states that Messrs Wand and Moore are opening a coal bank about two miles south of Eugene City, which gives good evidence of being valuable At the depth of sixty feet thick, it is of a quality much improved over that of the beginning of tunnel It is yet somewhat mixed with slate, but burns well Mr Wand discovered the croppings two years ago Notwithstanding the various coal banks in the State, we continue to import the article, and pay duties on it

Arlington Heights still remain in possession of the Government, but it is said that the wife of Robert E Lee has recently written to a friend that she intends to return there, even if she is obliged to live in the black quarters" This is indicative of the strength of her determination to reassert what she considers the rights of herself and her husband to this historic property but among the other obstacles she will probably encounter is the fact that 12 000 Union soldiers have been buried upon its soil

I O G T —The Salem lodge of Good Templars have called for a convention of the order in Oregon to meet in Salem on the 20th and continue till the 22d The object of the convention is not stated

Money Order Office, P. O. Department.

This Office has been designated as a MONEY ORDER OFFICE and is now prepared to furnish Orders from one to thirty dollars on any Money Order Office in the United States E G RANDALL, P M

Portland, Oregon Feb 12, 1866.

The specific object of the Money Order system is to afford facilities for the safe transfer through the mails of small sums of money so as to prevent as far as possible the loss of money letters, which contain generally but small sums For this reason the maximum amount of a money order is limited by law to thirty dollars Hence it is not intended that this system shall assume the functions and interfere with the business of Banks and of Bankers, by furnishing exchange for large sums of money The mode by which safety is secured consists in leaving out of the order the name of the payee or party for whom the money is intended In this respect the money order differs from an ordinary bank check.

An advice or notification containing full particulars of the order is transmitted by the issuing Postmaster to the Postmaster at the office of payment The latter is thus furnished before the order itself can be presented with the necessary information to detect fraud if any should be attempted—thus insuring the transfer of small sums of money without danger of loss

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning. It contains the latest [illegible] news [illegible] and a selection of the best [illegible] in THE DAILY OREGONIAN [illegible] full and [illegible] Mines, and the most [illegible] commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other paper in Oregon, and in the particular of [illegible] and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

☞ Single copies 12½ cents or $5.00 per year to any part of the United States or British Columbia.

WOOLEN AND COTTON GOODS.—In reviewing the markets of this city yesterday we were shown samples of cotton goods, produced at the Oakland Cotton Mill California. The mills are now in successful operation. There are 18 looms at work, manufacturing from 400 to 500 yards of sheeting per day. There are thirty two looms in the building, but they are not all in operation. When they get to running they will turn off about 1,200 yards of goods per day. The number of persons now employed in the Mill is twenty. Nearly all these are women who board near the factory. They seem to do their work well—are attentive to business. The machinery is run by a forty horse engine of superior patent. The mills are now running on cotton shipped from Mexico. The proprietor has already received some cotton from Southern Utah. It is short staple, was ginned before packing, and is said to be of good merchantable quality, and is a fair sample of ten tons yet to arrive. The invoice was sold at the factory for 30 cents ℔ lb. The first shipment of manufactured goods from the Oakland Mill was made to Honolulu by the steamer Ajax on her first trip to the Islands from San Francisco, and consisted of 500 yards of sheeting. Mr W. H. Rector, the founder of this enterprise, was an Oregon man. Made his money in Oregon, and all his attachments and associations were in Oregon. A Salem paper asks Why did he go to California to start this new enterprise—an enterprise that will add thousands upon thousands to the wealth of that State? Why was not this Cotton Mill erected at Oregon City, or at least in Oregon? Because Oregon did not encourage it. The State of California offered a premium of ten thousand dollars, in gold for the erection of such a factory as Rector's. The raw material could have been brought to Oregon just as cheap as to San Francisco, and the manufactured goods could have been sold here as readily as in California. There was really no difference between the [illegible] the encouragement offered the infant enterprise by the strong arm of the State. California has offered premiums on a great variety of manufactures. California aids its manufactures, its agriculture, its railroads, and its commerce. This is the way to do, if a State would prosper. If Oregon would prosper, it must make use of the same foresight and policy that has made every other Pacific State prosperous. When we do that, we shall have no more of subordination to the interests of California. We will then be her equal. The factories we have in this State for the making of woolen goods, are far superior to any in California, and their productions stand high in the markets of the country. We regret to [illegible] of the [illegible] of Mr L. E. Pratt, as Superintendent of the Oregon City Factory. We understand it is his intention to resume the Superintendency of a large establishment to be erected at Olympia. The erection of Woolen Factories in this State and Washington Territory is being entered upon quite extensively. Salem gray blankets, No. 1 quality, have been withdrawn from the market, and other qualities are advancing. The prices of Oregon [illegible] goods have also materially advanced. The [illegible] made at Oregon City, after inspection by [illegible] is [illegible] pronounced superior to the imported [illegible] same grade.

JOHN DAY MINES.—The isolation of some portions of the mines known as John Day's, is partially sufficient [illegible] why only a few persons who happen to go there, know much about them. From Mr. J. D. Griffith we are informed that a section he has spent two seasons in—between the Middle Fork of John Day and Granite Creek—has paid every man in it well for their services in mining, and trade. Olive creek, Quartz Gulch, and auriferous hills, creeks, flats, bars and gulches about that vicinity yet remain but partly prospected. The claims opened last [illegible] all paid well, and from some of them quite handsome returns were obtained. He cites as an instance of the value of claims there upon which men are at work, a fact that two persons, flat broke, came in and took up a claim that had been abandoned, and in a few days working struck good pay. They continued to work all the [illegible] through, and then in the fall sold out for $2,500. Now, that was pretty good, we think. Aside from all we are able to learn concerning the [illegible] there is a good field for development in Grant [illegible] counties. The miners have suffered much [illegible] of proper mail facilities, having been compelled [illegible] 25 cents, and $1 each, for the OREGONIAN, and the [illegible] rates on letters. We trust that when the route is [illegible] from Dalles to Boise, via Canyon City and Independence, the miners will reap some advantage from the [illegible] of the mails. They will surely, if the contract falls into honest hands—but there is so much roguery in the country it is decidedly hard to tell how this will work. In the meantime, in case the [illegible] up there, along the line, want a Postoffice established, they should be up and doing, and after making the proper representation of the facts, send them to [illegible] Williams, at Washington City, who will attend to their wants, without fear or favor of private parties. The extortionate rates of [illegible] in the upper country, not only keep the people from being [illegible], but prevent us from having a [illegible] here where we now have but hundreds, and the same rule applies to other journals. Every [illegible] on the stage route should be provided.

THE PORTLAND DIRECTORY.—For the year commencing January, 1866, [illegible] a [illegible] directory of residents, and a directory of business, together with the Charter and [illegible] Ordinances of the city, and other [illegible] relative to the progress and [illegible] of Portland. Compiled and published by S. J. McCormick, editor of the Oregon Almanac.

We have received the fourth issue of the above work. In addition to the annual review of Portland, the Directory this year has a historical sketch of the city, compiled from the Directory for 1863, and brought down to the present year, which is a correct review, and one of considerable interest to our citizens. We regret that our limited space forbids us from commenting upon this piece of history—as the compiler has truly stated, "A history of Portland is a history of Oregon." A table [illegible] to this history gives the population of the city as follows:

1862	4,057
1864	6,518

being an increase of 3,151 since 1860, and a gain of 220 over the population of 1864. The exports of the year are given at [illegible], and imports at $7,606,124. Taken all together the Directory for 1866 is a very creditable work.

ELOPED.—Henry Wagner has eloped from the city, leaving his sureties in the lurch. He will no doubt be justified for this last proceeding, on the ground that, if [illegible] done in self-defence, as saltpetre would not have saved him from a term in the Penitentiary. Why is it that none of these skedaddlers are brought to time? Patterson, [illegible], Cedelia Lyon, Wagner and others are entitled to board and lodgings in this city at the expense of the State for deeds of daring [illegible] ought to request them to come back, as murderers and thieves [illegible] their reward.

FOR VANCOUVER.—The steamer Fannie Troup will leave the Washington street wharf to-day at 10 o'clock A. M., and will go to Vancouver, if possible, but we understand Captain Turnbull does not expect to get further than the Washington Territory side of the Columbia, opposite the mouth of the Willamette. In either case the steamer will return this evening. This affords a fine opportunity to those persons who desire to see the ice blockade of the Columbia.

FIRE AT VANCOUVER.—On Tuesday night an old building of the Hudson Bay Company at Fort Vancouver, used as a Government [illegible] barn, was destroyed by fire. It was detected in [illegible] and the fire did no further harm of consequence. The timbers of the building were mostly [illegible] and [illegible] a long time. The building was filled with straw. It is supposed that some Indians fired the building, who were pursued and taken.

REAL ESTATE RAFFLE.—A rare chance is offered for some one to get a fine building lot in Caruther's Addition for $2. Lot 7, in block B, is offered, and will be sold in the manner as advertised, between this date and the 1st of March at the shooting gallery, No. 8, Morrison street. See advertisement.

AQUINA BAY.—A sloop now loading at the Taylor street wharf for Aquina Bay takes, among other freight, a boiler for the new steamboat building there by Kellogg & Co.

STEAMSHIP MOVEMENTS.—The steamer Pacific arrived at San Francisco yesterday. The Nevada is announced to take her departure for Portland on Tuesday next.

WILLAMETTE THEATRE.—This evening the play at the above place of [illegible] should ought to entitle the Manager to a full house.

THE ALABAMA CHURCH QUESTION.—President Johnson having removed the interdict some time ago imposed by General Thomas on the Episcopal clergy of Alabama, in consequence of the Bishop the Rev Mr Wilmer advising them to omit the prayer for the National Executive, the General, in an order issued on the 22d ult., announcing said removal, took occasion to allude to the Bishop's course in terms not at all complimentary to that gentleman. He says the interdict is removed because the people of Alabama have shown that they are not disposed to be influenced by the "covert and cunning" disloyalty of the Bishop, whom the General leaves "to that remorse of conscience consequent on the exposure and failure of the diabolical schemes of designing and corrupt minds."

Letter from St Paul

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ST PAUL, MINN., Jan 4th, 1866.

A YEAR OF PROSPERITY.

Since my last letter to the OREGONIAN we have fully entered upon our winter scenes and the absence of the usual steamers at our levee has occasioned some considerable depression in business, although it is a noticeable feature that the year just closed has been one of prosperity to our city and State. All branches of trade have been unusually lively and our merchants think that they are much better off than at the beginning of 1865. Money has freely circulated among all classes. Labor has been scarce and its rewards much higher than ever before known in the country. All seem to be prosperous and live better dress better, and enjoy life more comfortably than at any time since the palmy days prior to the crash of 1857. From these causes trade on the Mississippi and along the route of the railroad which is stretching its iron arm out to meet you in the fraternal grasp, has been continually stimulated, and our interests in general have flourished unprecedentedly rapid. The agricultural community have prospered in a ratio proportionate to the balance of the people. During the year 242,714 pounds of wool have been exported from the State, which is an excess of 148,023 pounds over the exports of 1864 and 203,608 pounds more than was shipped during the years of 1861 2 showing that notwithstanding what has been said regarding our climate sheep husbandry is a paying business in Minnesota. The flour and grain exports of the year were more than double that of 1864, the statistics showing an export of 126,000 bushels of wheat against 300,000 in 1864, and 67,288 barrels of flour against 18,572 in 1864.

THE FUR TRADE.

All the world looks to St Paul in a greater or less degree, for their furs. This city has always been, and perhaps will always continue to be one of the largest fur markets in the world. Actual statistics prove that it is now the second fur market in the United States, exceeding that of St. Louis in all amounts except the single article of buffalo robes. The growth of the trade, since its commencement, is shown to be steady and permanent, arising from $1,400 in 1844 to $357,700 in 1865. One sale of mink furs a few weeks since amounted to $45,000. There are five houses here engaged largely in the purchase of furs and should the catch this winter turn out as favorably as is now expected, the trade next season will be much larger than that of 1865, as the fashionable demand for furs will undoubtedly keep prices up to their present rate. Should the onerous restrictions on the trade with the Red River settlements, which is now hampered by the high duties be removed by a more liberal policy, St. Paul would become the natural depot and mart for the fur trade of the whole vast Hudson Bay region, amounting to two or three million dollars annually.

OUR RAILROADS AND THEIR INFLUENCE.

A still brighter era is now dawning on the trade of our city than any it has witnessed before, occasioned by the completion of a part of our grand Railroad System. We are now in direct connection with three railroads, one extending over 40 miles to the northwest, and another penetrating over 50 miles southward, into the rich interior counties of the State. The completion of the latter, the Central Railroad, to Faribault, produced a marked increase in the trade of our city. Every merchant felt its influence at once. The area of trade of the city was extended over a large section of the State which had not hitherto been tributary to it, and the books of nearly every merchant show orders from places which hitherto had been unknown on them. If such a gratifying increase has sprung from the partial completion of one road, what results are too much to expect when our splendid system of railroads, of which St. Paul is to be the terminus of eight distinct lines, is completed?

We are looking hopefully forward to the time expecting favorable action of Congress to aid you and us in the work of the Northern Pacific Railroad, which has been an encouraging stimulant to us for years. Since the completion to the present terminus of the line, trains are daily passing over the route, and a large portion of the country through which it passes has become available for agricultural purposes, notwithstanding the facilities afforded previously by navigation on the upper Mississippi, which seems to be not so badly affected as people supposed it would be, when the iron horse undertook to do the work of steamers. In at least two years more, there will be direct communication by railroad between St. Louis and St. Anthony, nine miles above St. Paul, which, with the Northern Pacific Railroad completed, as all parties in this State desire, to the Columbia river, will afford one of the finest thoroughfares the world ever saw. It has been demonstrated, as I presume you are aware, that a railroad through British territory from the Canadas to the Pacific ocean is not feasible. A road must be built through the territory of the United States, and it is clearly the opinion here that that road must and will be the Northern Pacific Railroad, inasmuch as it will link together the most favorable sections of the country, in the very shortest space. Minnesota, Dacotah, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, and other sections, should present a united front, and labor together both in and out of Congress for this object. The Senators and Representatives of this State, as well as the influence of Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and a portion of Missouri, favor the Northern Pacific route, and from private advices and public addresses upon the subject, I am assured, that could you, of the Pacific coast, convince capitalists and those interested, that the line would pay as well from the West as it does now from the East, work could be commenced upon that end of the route simultaneous with the work here; and I am positive you can do so. The wealth of Montana is well understood here. Many of our citizens return from there, give us ocular demonstration of the fact, and with the present facilities, it must be a hard matter indeed to stock the markets of that territory. The growing importance of a trade like that of the mineral regions lying between St. Paul and Portland, ought to furnish facts sufficient to induce capitalists to make some arrangement for the investment of their money in that direction.

A MILITARY ROAD.

It is expected that the route explored by General I. I. Stevens will this spring be opened as a military road. Thousands of people are already preparing to take up the line of march across the plains to the new Eldorado, and it will be necessary to afford them protection from hostile bands of Indians. To do this sufficiently well, and at the same time protect an overland mail line which it is contemplated will be in operation during the year, stations will be erected, and troops furnished the same as has been done for years along the central route. The great bulk of travel to Montana the coming season will fit out at St Paul, as the most practicable place at which to obtain supplies. No escort will be furnished, as in times past, but troops are expected to go regularly enlisted instead.

GOLD AT HOME.

During the year just closed, as the one previous to it—the explorations under appropriation from the State Legislature of Minnesota have been very successful. In 1864 as a reward for the outlay of money, and the expenditure of enterprise on the part of our State, valuable coal deposits were found that now yield the companies incorporated to work them handsome profits and reimburse the public Treasury. In September last the explorers found gold about one hundred and fifty miles north of this city, since which time there has been considerable excitement on account of it. Governor Miller has made application for the immediate survey and sale of the public lands in the counties where these discoveries were made, (Lake and St. Louis,) the Surveyor General reporting to Washington that the lands abound in mineral wealth, and it is very probable they will soon be placed in market. The lands are adapted to agriculture.

THE RED RIVER CARTS.

The annual trip to St. Paul of the carts of the Red River was not so large as in the season of 1864. The cause of this is said to be the partial failure of crops in the valley of the Red River—which diminished the ability of traders to purchase their usual supplies. This trade commenced about the year 1844, and was pioneered by Norman W. Kittson, who established a trading post at Pembina. Soon after, the Red River carts—composed wholly of wood and drawn by a single ox—became the means of transportation, and the trains increased each year until in 1858 over 400 came down. The number that came down the past year is estimated at 1,000. Their down freight is almost solely furs and robes, and in such quantities $100,000 worth have been received in a single year. They take back almost all kinds of goods—groceries, clothing, hats and caps, tin and hollow-ware, stoves, guns and ammunition, agricultural implements etc. If the average value of loads in past years—$150 to a cart—holds good still, there must have been quite $150,000 worth of goods sold to these bois brule traders the past summer—an item of some importance in our trade. This year 2,368 bales of buffalo robes were received from the Red River settlements by means of these carts, making 23,680 robes received in all. A very large proportion of these were brought down for the Hudson Bay Company. The Red River trade is one of value and importance to our city. When our railroad connection with that fertile region is completed as it is to be at no very distant day, it will assume a prominence that will aid our city in becoming the commercial emporium of the Northwest.

SPIRITS IN THE FAR NORTH.

By the last trip of Burbank's express from the region on the Red River we [illegible] possession of files of the Nor'Wester a small paper published near the Arctic region in the British [illegible]. The people there are [illegible] not [illegible] in the Hudson Bay Company's Fort on Yukon, in Russian America, calculated to frighten the good people out of their wits. It appears that some time ago strange noises were heard in the master's house at Fort Youcon, slight at first, exciting some surprise and a little investigation but soon they increased in frequency and violence so much as to be heard at a distance from the house and the nuisance has now become so intolerable that the men refuse to stay at the place and it will necessitate a visit this winter from the chief factor of the district. The noises are now heard principally in the hall of the house. Persons will be sitting in the room adjoining it, when suddenly on the [illegible] sensible of a cold thrill. Dogs if there be any in the room will run crouching to their feet in fear and shortly afterwards the noises commence slamming of doors knocking on the wall crashing of furniture etc. but on the hall being entered the noise is stopped, the chairs are in their proper places, the table uninjured, and everything as before. The Indians who have a happy way of accounting for anything mysterious say that it is "[illegible]" but [illegible] "but the others seem rather to think that the indignant ghost of some defunct Russian is slamming crashing and banging his protest against the further occupation of his country by the English. How the matter will terminate remains to be seen.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The oldest established paper in this city and State, the Pioneer and Democrat has lately changed its name and firm, Messrs Hill and Davidson having purchased the final interest of stockholders, and dropped the word 'Democrat,' from the heading of the sheet doubtless thinking that it should be rubbed out as the party once possessing that title has become extinct.

The St Louis correspondent of the Chicago Republican, furnishes an interesting statement of steamboat tonnage on the western rivers, from which I learn the total number of steamers at Pittsburg, St Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, New Orleans, Memphis, Wheeling, St Paul, Dubuque, Evansville, Galena, Keokuk, and Nashville is 916 with a capacity of 292,114 tons and a total value of $24,156,600. The statement was originally prepared by Captain James F. Griffith Secretary of the Committee on the improvement of Western rivers, which committee are now compiling statistics to present to Congress, asking for appropriation to aid the object of improving navigation on the Mississippi and its tributaries. The number of steamers owned in this city is thirty-nine with a capacity of 4,971 tons, and valued at $875,500.

JACKSON COUNTY.—We condense from the Jacksonville Sentinel of the 10th the following:

At a meeting held at Ashland on the 3d of February for the purpose of organizing a company to erect a woolen factory at that place, Thomas Smith was called to the chair and B. F. Myer chosen Secretary. The object of the meeting having been stated, it having been represented that a meeting for a like purpose was to be held at Jacksonville on the 10th inst., it was decided to postpone the organization of the company until after that meeting, and a committee of three was appointed to confer with the friends of the enterprise at the named meeting, with instructions to lay before that body the advantage to arise to the company and to the country, from the location of the factory at Ashland. The meeting adjourned to meet again on the 17th.

The Register and Receiver of the land office at Roseburg have given notice that there are many valuable mining claims in Jackson county which are subject to entry under the homestead or pre-emption laws.

To prevent the future entry of mineral lands in Jackson county, a meeting of the citizens was called to be held at Jacksonville on the 17th.

The tunnel in the "Fair Play" quartz mine near Jacksonville has been run so far that the edge of the ledge has been struck. By next week the ledge will be better developed, when we will give a more extended account.

The Spring Races over the Dyhon Track are fixed to come off on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 24th, 25th and 26th, under the proprietorship of Messrs. [illegible] and A. Helm.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM, SKIN DISEASE, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, and indeed of Chronic Disease generally, seem not curable by ordinary medical treatment, however skillful. For this reason the undersigned has made arrangements for the treatment of this class of diseases by which the patient may have the benefit of Dr Langston Parker's method of treatment by fumigations; the use of many of the mineral and saline waters; baths in sea water; general and local baths of water heated air and simple and medicated vapor, in addition to such other medical or surgical treatment as may be indicated.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, February 16, 1866

Although trade for the week has been generally active, to-day it presents a dull feature, and is noted for a lack of business, incident to the unfavorable state of the weather which has again closed the Columbia river. There is some hope, however, that the interruption will not be of long duration, and business will resume its usual activity before the close of another week.

We present our readers to-day with a full and reliable account of the state of the markets in Montana, furnished us by parties to whom the letter from which we extract was written by Mr. H. D. Sanborn. It will be found very interesting:

"The gold crop of Montana has been most wholly from the placers. Quartz mining is still in its infancy. Up to the present season the mining has been confined to some three gulches—one in the vicinity of Bannock (Grasshopper), and Alder & Bivin's in the immediate vicinity of Virginia City. Within twelve months gulches without number have been discovered. Among the most paying are French, German, Last Chance, Grizzly, Oro Fino, Dry Nelson's, Deadwood, Ophir, Confederate, Oregon, Wilber's, Carpenter's, Washington, Jefferson, McClellan's, and Avalanche. Of the amount of gold taken from these camps it is impossible to estimate. They cover an area some 150 miles long and 90 wide. One of the best camps recently struck are about 400 miles from Walla Walla. Close on the heels of placer discoveries have come quartz, until there are leads at all points of the compass. The first mill in this country was put in operation last week some 6 miles from here. The result of the week's work was $1,400. The mill has 12 stamps. A number of mills have arrived this fall and will be put up this winter. Enough is known to satisfy me that this is one of the most extensive mining districts discovered, and will hold its own with any country in point of richness. I am satisfied that few people in Oregon fully appreciate the value of this section. Each of the opening and ore put sluices, that the country east of the Bitter Root mountains is of as much value to Oregon as the belt between the Cascade and Bitter Root mountains. You may think I put it rather strong, but time will tell the story. I have tried to look on all sides and can come to no other conclusion.

In agriculture the country is young. There are some good farming lands in the Territory, but the greater portion is far from good. The best farming lands are on the Jefferson, Madison and Gallatin forks of the Missouri. There have been vegetables here of good quality and at fair prices since my arrival, and I think next season the supply will be equal to the demand. Wheat, barley and oats have been raised in considerable quantities, and by another fall the demand for oats and barley will be supplied. Wheat has not as yet been raised in sufficient quantities to place any flour in the market. I am informed they have a good mill on the Gallatin where wheat is now ground for the farmers. The supplies for the country have mostly come from the States, aside from flour, which has mostly come from Salt Lake.

Flour can be bought in Salt Lake for about five cents per pound at present. During the summer and early fall, it was worth some 7 to 8 cents, [illegible] the flour has been laid down here at a cost of about 10 cents. It is of inferior quality. No dependence can be placed on the different brands. A great portion is taken in small quantities by the traders and sacked by them. A sack may contain flour from half a dozen mills and of as many different kinds of wheat. The price to-day for Salt Lake is $25 for a sack of 98 pounds. The St. Louis flour is of a better quality. This season it has been laid down here for about 22 cents, and is sold to-day for $30 per sack of 98 pounds. The best brands of Oregon flour are superior to any I have seen from any point east of the mountains. It is sold to-day at $16 per sack of 50 pounds. Aside from flour, peaches, beans, eggs and butter are brought from Salt Lake in limited quantities. Bacon is brought wholly from the States. I think the cost in St. Louis is about the same as at Portland. The price to-day by the quantity is 65 cents.

The demand [illegible] beef cattle will be much greater than any previous year, and the supply must come mostly from Oregon. I have made a rough calculation that Oregon must send 20,000 head of cattle here next season. Butchers inform me that all cattle for sale have [illegible], and that all the cattle in the Territory will not more than supply the demand up to 1st of June. Last season California sent 12,000 head; this season none have come from there. The amount of cattle by teams this [illegible] has been unusually small. It is thought that all the work cattle will be used in teams in the immediate vicinity. There is but little probability that the emigration will be any larger next season—the Indian difficulties will be the cause. There will be a demand on Oregon for sheep and hogs to a considerable amount. The sales of cattle have been made in large lots at about 12 cents nett. Pork is worth 30 cents by the quantity.

There is a good demand for [illegible] and Oregon blankets and all kinds of cloth manufactured in either State, and for the manufactured goods of the San Francisco Mills. I think there will be but few blankets brought here another season, as blankets of equal quality can be laid down here for about one third less than from St. Louis, and all the merchants here understand this.

A great quantity of [illegible] to supply the [illegible] season. [illegible] at [illegible] City should try and do something in the way of manufacturing under clothing of all kinds and with a little [illegible] such a change would make goods much more saleable. Salem blankets sell here to-day for $30. California gray over shirts, $5; California under shirts, $4; and other clothing in proportion. [illegible] are scarce. Had it not been for the goods from the Columbia river, the people would have suffered this winter, and as it is, all goods will be consumed before any amount can reach here in the spring.

There are several [illegible] why goods are high this season, some of which I will give. The merchants in the country left [illegible] last fall, before any new discoveries had been made, and only [illegible] calculations for the usual trade. As a matter of course the demand was [illegible] than the supply. Had all the goods reached here that [illegible] would have been supplied, but with the [illegible] of part of it, many had to lay over at different points along the Missouri river, where the boats were obliged to discharge their cargoes. But seven boats reached Fort Benton the past season. Most of the purchases were made for this market in March and April last when all goods were high, and gold low, and the figures look large; coffee, 35 cents; crushed sugar, 28 cents; [illegible] similar to the [illegible], $15 per pair, and all other goods in proportion.

[illegible] the emigration has been large and more or less goods have been thrown into the market by them, but this [illegible] the emigration has been so small that goods brought by them had no effect on the market in the least. The cost of transportation has been much greater this season, both by water and land. A heavy freighter just in from Salt Lake, tells me he has lost money on his freights this season from there. He loaded at Nebraska City for Salt Lake City for 20 cents, from Salt Lake to this place for 10 cents.

As for freights on steamers, I find some have paid more than others [illegible] New York to St. Louis, 2½ c; from St. Louis to Fort Benton, 10c; from Fort Benton to Helena, 20c; insurance, [illegible]. Some think the above figure will be reduced next season; others do not. I think it safe to estimate the cost of goods at 15 [illegible] gold, next season from St. Louis to Helena.

It is the [illegible] opinion that few boats will go above the Muscle Shell next [illegible] the point below Fort Benton. If such is the case the cost of transportation by land will be increased while the freight on the steamer will remain the same. In conversation with one of the first [illegible] a day or two since, on the mentioning the danger of navigation of the Missouri, he intimated that the loss of boats last season was more easily traced to the fact that the cargoes would be duplicated at St. Louis with the insurance [illegible] and have [illegible] left, than to the [illegible] river. [illegible] were [illegible] and steamboats [illegible] than they [illegible] February and March. [illegible] fact than some [illegible].

Mr. [illegible] will be made to [illegible] to Walla Walla. [illegible] locust, and [illegible] river. There is [illegible] route from [illegible] Sioux City [illegible] Territory [illegible] to Portland there [illegible] from the States via Salt Lake, and all [illegible] the west go via Salt Lake and Sacramento now."

We also extract from [illegible] the following from [illegible] in reference to the new [illegible] amalgam:

"I am solicited to take an interest in a new separator—lead as amalgam. I don't see why it is not perfect. On assay made by Prof. Blaney, there was no trace of gold in the tailings. The man wants a million dollars for his patent; if it is what he expects, it is worth millions. It is a cheap affair. Suppose two potash kettles, one on top of the other, fastened together—an egg-shaped iron vessel of heavy metal. Near top a pipe, leading to an air pump; just above or near the center, on each side, a pipe leading to a receiver—the vessel nearly half-full of lead—insert in top a six inch pipe with funnel mouth, reaching to near the bottom of the vessel, with flanges 4 or 6 inch, as long as necessary, in order to force the quartz to circulate after it has entered the vessel. Of course all air tight except the [illegible] pipe from the top. [illegible] the lead by fire under the vessel, which should be set in brick. Keep the center pipe filled with crushed quartz as you would feed a mill hopper—in the air pump produce a vacuum above the lead, when this center column of quartz is forced by atmospheric pressure down and through the melted lead which takes up every particle of gold or silver and the tailings pass off in the receivers. A stop cock in the pipe leading to receiver, cuts off and while one receiver is being cleared of tailings, the other fills and so on. [illegible] half ton is passed through in ten minutes. With one of these simple things the tailings already thrown aside during the past years would be inestimable. Lead readily absorbs ½ to ¾ its bulk or weight, and the article is both plenty and cheap. The tests have been perfect so far as competent parties can judge, and I do not see why it is not just what is claimed for it."

The St. Louis papers are quoting San Francisco prices of Kerosene and numerous other articles of merchandise, as well as the ruling rates of the mining share market. The St. Louis Democrat of Dec. 30 says the money market was tight, with an active demand for money at 1@2 per cent a month, to which the Sacramento [illegible] pungently asks: "Why don't the national currency bring down and keep down the rate of interest in the chief city of Missouri?"

Business goes on in Nevada much as it did before the late decision of the Supreme Court. The present fact is, of course, says a Virginia City paper, owing to the fact that our merchants and the bankers as well, have agreed to go on with charge and credit on the gold basis, though the obligation to pay, where credit is given, is "on honor" and henceforth cannot be by virtue of an enforced special gold contract. It is the working classes that most distressed at the reversed condition of the financial basis in Nevada. It is easy enough for the bankers to settle their accounts with their honorable debtors and commence upon a currency basis, and the merchant can easily mark his prices 40 per cent. higher and take legal tender notes at par. But labor is not so readily advanced.

There is little inquiry for money, and stocks are dull. The San Francisco Stock Market is improving.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, February 1[illegible], 1866

As has already been stated, trade is inactive. Rio and Costa Rica Coffee has declined 1½ cent per pound. [illegible] gate Soap is selling to-day at 1 cent less. Kerosene is tending downward and may be purchased to-day at $1 to $1 37½. A few other articles are less. Nails [illegible]

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, February 16, 1866

This market is very quiet and prices are practically unchanged. The receipts of flour from mills on the Willamette river have been considerable, but there seems to be little demand, and as a consequence there is a large increase in the amounts on storage available for shipment.

There was a handsome increase observed in the receipts of grain at San Francisco during the last week of January, which enabled parties to give dispatch to a number of vessels for various ports in Australia and Japan. The export transactions in flour, wheat, oats and barley, from San Francisco, seems to be good, as all the available tonnage in port to the fullest extent is used, and there are complaints of a lack of requisite carrying capacity in the vessels offered, showing that every means are being exerted to supply a foreign export trade.

Four full cargoes of grain and flour, valued in the aggregate at $105,586, left for Australia during the week ending January 29th, besides two for the coast of Brazil valued at $38,021, and about $100,000 worth was in the same time dispatched for Japan.

From representations made, it appears that the farmers of California are able to supply the demand likely to be made upon them, and they are preparing for an immense crop in 1866. These facts go far to show how much better off Oregon would be, were it possible to have foreign vessels in the trade of this State and the surrounding Territories, and proves satisfactorily that movements should be made as early as possible to bring about the desired results. No trade has been attempted here lately that has not been successful. As an evidence we need but refer to that of the Sandwich Islands. Had we the vessels here available for freight, could we not with so favorable opportunities compete for the business of Australia and Japan, as our California neighbors? California will not buy of us unless obliged to.

We have lost for the time being the trade of British Columbia, as now a mail subsidy will enable them to make purchases in San Francisco on more favorable terms than here, on account of freights, which have been placed at $6 from San Francisco to Victoria.

General Remarks.

Revenue stamps may be used indiscriminately upon any of the matters or things enumerated in Schedule B, except proprietary and playing card stamps for which a special use has been provided.

It is the duty of the maker of an instrument to affix and cancel the stamp required thereon. If he neglects to do so, the party for whose use it is made may stamp it before it is used, but in no case can it be legally used without a stamp. An instrument subject to stamp duty but issued and used without stamp prior to August 1, 1864, may be rendered valid by stamping it as required by section 163 of the Act of June 30, 1864. If issued since the above date, under section 158 of said Act as amended by the Act of March 3, 1865.

Suits are commenced in many States by other process than by writ, viz: summons, warrant, publication, petition, &c., in which cases these, as the original process, severally require stamps.

The jurat of an affidavit, taken before a justice of the peace, notary public, or other officer duly authorized to take affidavits, is held to be a certificate, and subject to a stamp duty of five cents, except when taken in suits or legal proceedings.

Certificates of Loan, in which there shall appear any written or printed evidence of an amount of money to be paid on demand, or at a time designated, are subject to stamp duty as "Promissory Notes."

The assignment of a mortgage is subject to the same stamp duty as that imposed upon the original instrument, that is to say, for every sum of five hundred dollars, or any fractional part thereof, of the amount secured by the mortgage at the time of its assignment, there must be affixed a stamp or stamps denoting a duty of fifty cents.

When two or more persons join in the execution of an instrument, the stamp to which the instrument is liable under the law may be affixed and cancelled by either of them.

In conveyances of real estate, the law provides that the stamp affixed must answer to the value of the estate or interest conveyed.

No stamp is required on any warrant of attorney accompanying a bond or note, when such bond or note has affixed thereto the stamp or stamps denoting the duty required, and whenever any bond or note is secured by mortgage, but one stamp duty is required on such papers, such stamp duty being the highest rate required for such instruments, or either of them. In such case a note or memorandum of the value or denomination of the stamp affixed should be made upon the margin or in the acknowledgment of the instrument which is not stamped.

THE STANDARD
AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!
AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS

MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER

At the Billiard Congress of 1863, composed of all the first-class players of America, it was unanimously resolved that tables of our manufacture should be used at all matches for the Championship, as the best and only reliable tables.

These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges, who have universally pronounced them unequaled for general excellence and durability.

Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted to us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a Patent from the French Government, for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.

We employ, in the construction of our tables, a variety of machines specially made for the purpose, by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mechanical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.

Having a long experience and thorough knowledge of all the appliances of Billiards, and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials, we are prepared to furnish everything required in the Billiard line with unprecedented dispatch.

The eminent French Billiard Player, M. Berger, has published the following opinion:

"NEW YORK, 21 August, 1861.

"On the eve of leaving the United States, I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that, after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities, I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard Tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior, that I am happy to introduce their styles of cushion into France. They have united to their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons I am happy to make this declaration.

"BERGER CLAUDIUS,
"Prof. of Billiards, Paris."

Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be made for. We sell first class articles at a fair price, and will not make an inferior article at any price.

Orders by mail carefully and promptly executed. Illustrated Catalogues and Price Lists sent by mail. The "Billiard Cue," a journal published in the interest of Billiards, containing details of all matches, and everything of interest to amateurs of Billiards, sent free on application.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

THAT OLD GREENBACK

[illegible] of Legal Tender Notes at Par [illegible] have been used here since Dec. 17, 1862, for the rent of my Bakery & Brick Store, corner of Morrison and Front streets, I feel compelled to announce, for the benefit of the public, that JACOB MAYER Leased the building of me Feb. 17, 1862, for a term of years, at which time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was a debt contracted then. Since the date above have received the depreciated currency regularly for the rent of the CITY OF PARIS STORE, making less than two-fifths of the real [illegible] said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in Coin, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantage of the times to convert a few dollars to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. The public can readily see how much it costs to have such tenantable costly buildings as the one referred to above.
